An Attempted Suicide at New Westminster—Heavy Failures in Nova Scotia.

C.P.R. Telegraph on New Brunswick R. R. Right of Way —Election Fight.

New Westminster, Sept. 21.—A man named Alex. MacFarlane, an inmate for some years of the Royal Columbian Hospital, attempted suicide on the Vancouver road, a mile and a half from town, this morning. When found he had severed the arteries on both wrists and stabbed himself near the right elbow and on the neck. Though he lost considerable blood he is expected to recover.

HEAVY FAILURES.

Halifax, Sept. 21.—E. A. Halifax, of Yarmouth, regarded for years as worth ten millions, has failed. He was heavily interested in shipping in the West India trade.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—Smith, Fischel & Co., manufacturers, have made an assignment at the demand of the Union Bank. Liabilities about $95,000.

REFUSED TO DISSOLVE.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 21—Judge Tucker has refused to dissolve the injunction obtained by the Western Union Co. on August 1st, restraining the Canadian Pacific Railroad Telegraph Co. from building a telegraph line on the right of way of the New Brunswick Railway between Vanceboro and St. John.

THE OTTAWA ELECTION CASE.

Ottawa, Sept. 19—Evidence of extensive bribery is being disclosed in the Ottawa County Provincial election case. Rochon, the sitting member, will be unseated if not disqualified.

INDUSTRIAL FAIR.

Toronto, Sept. 19—The attendance at the exhibition yesterday was the largest in the history of the institution. Over 50,000 people were present and the gate receipts reached nearly $14,000.

FIGHT IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Sept. 19—Another big Rouge meeting was held last evening and it is evident that the fight is going to be a red hot one. Peirior delivered the first speech and declared that the Government's platform was Riel's scaffold, on that they were prepared to stand or fall.

THE ODD FELLOWS.

Meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge—Business Done.

When the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows met at Los Angelos on the 18th inst., the city was decorated and crowded as never before. The parade was one of the grandest sights ever witnessed there. Business was generally suspended.

The Sovereign grand lodge elected Geo. C. Underwood, of Covington, Ky., Grand Sire for the next two years. Charles M. Bushee, of Raleigh, N. C., was elected Deputy Grand Sire. Theodore Ross, of Columbus, Ohio, was re-elected Grand Secretary, and Isaac A. Shepherd, of Philadelphia, was re-elected Grand Treasurer.

The procession was nearly two miles in length, and occupied 35 minutes in passing a given place. Between 5000 and 6000 members of the order and the militia took part in the pageant. It was viewed by probably 60,000 people.

The second day's session was devoted to appeals from subordinate grand lodges, on points of order works, and action on reports of committees.

Several amendments to the constitution prepared at the session of 1887 were considered, and one relating to appeals was adopted. The proposition to admit young men of 18 years to membership was rejected, the vote on roll call standing a hundred in favor and 51 against, the necessary three-fourths not being secured.

An invitation from the governor of Kansas and the lodges of that state, to hold the session of 1889 at Topeka, was received, but no action was taken.

About 1000 visiting Odd Fellows and friends made an excursion to Pasadena to-day. A large number left on the regular train, preceding the excursion train, which proved to be fortunate, as the 10 coaches comprising the latter train were completely filled. The visitors were met at Pasadena depot by a large delegation of citizens, and spent two hours riding about that city.

The reports of the Sovereign Grand officers showed a gratifying increase in membership during the year. In 1886 the increase was 12,990, and in 1887, 25,370. At the end of the past year the total membership of the order was 555,670.

FROM OTTAWA.

Elections Unopposed—The Fishery Inspector—Personals.

(Special to THE TIMES.)

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—The elections in Cardwell and North Lanark to the legislature will be unopposed.

Mowatt, fisheries inspector, left to-day for the maritime provinces and will enquire while there into transportation of lobsters to the Pacific. He will interview his father, who first started hatcheries in the Dominion, in the matter. It is now too late to do anything this season, but preparations will be made to commence next May. In the meantime the government will have a car made suitable for transportation.

It is hoped here that Tupper will be more successful than his predecessor in this business.

Dewdney arrived here on Monday and started to work in the department at ten o'clock. He was in the office all day. Bowell has also arrived from a visit to the Coast.

A Girl Betrayed.

One of the most sensational arrests ever effected on Puget Sound was made Wednesday night when Probate Judge James Wickersham of Tacoma was taken into custody on the charge of seducing a poor working girl only 19 years of age, named Sadie C. Brunner. The case, aside from the evident cold-blooded planning of the girl's ruin, is complicated with a supposed crime against the government as from the girl's own statement Wickersham, after getting her thoroughly under his influence, induced her to perjure herself to pre-empt a valuable piece of government land and then assign it to him. Besides, a prominent firm of Tacoma physicians are likely to be implicated for producing an abortion after Miss Brunner was found to be enceinte. The story of the girl's ruin by the Judge occupies about two columns in the Post Intelligencer. Wickersham is a married man and about 35 years of age.

THE SEWERAGE QUESTION.

A Practical Man Discusses It with the Reporter.

Mr. Alex. McBean, one of the pioneers of Cariboo days, arrived in the city last evening and has been hunting up "Cariboo Cameron" and some of the rest of "the boys" to-day.

Mr. McBean is now a resident of California and is an extensive contractor. He has been engaged for several years with large contracts for constructing sewers and has just come from Salt Lake and Helena, where he has large jobs on hand. The reporter, in conversation with him on the matter, obtained a general view regarding a system for this city. From what Mr. McBean had learned of the system which was proposed for this city, he thought it would be an expensive one, in fact unnecessarily so. It was proposed in some cases to make cuts of 18 feet, which were in his opinion, not required. The cost was doubled in cutting anything below 13 feet. The fall was not very great, being only one foot in nine hundred, but that was sufficient. San Diego has just completed a $500,000 system and Los Angeles has done the same. The fall there is one in seven hundred, while the main sewer is only 24 inches. Mr. McBean says sooner or later the people have got to come to a proper system of sewerage. They can't do without it. His idea for accomplishing the flushing is to have small tanks at the end of each of the parallel sewers leading to the main one and also to have a large reservoir at the head of the main sewer, all of which could be made to flush the pipes automatically. The proposition for the Victoria system he understood was to do this by hand which would entail needless expense. In regard to draining off the surface water, that should have no connection with the sewerage system. It was quite easy to run that into the bay. Where the surface water had been emptied into the sewers he had seen it in the winter season burst up the man holes and pour sewerage over the streets, in fact, play the mischief with the whole system. The surface water should be drained off separately. Mr. McBean goes up to see some friends in New Westminster to-night and will return on his way home on Sunday.

ALL THE DIFFERENCE IN THE WORLD.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—So would you and everybody else say, who happened to read the article headed "What is the Difference," in Wednesday evening's Standard, intended for a reply to your justly deserved and most commendable strictures upon the double dealing of the great Amor. I must admit that in all my reading experience, I have never read such a weak reply. The editor of the paper, be he Smith or any body else, whilst admitting the great wrong perpetrated by this aspirant, tries hard to shield him by asking most childishly "what is the difference, white merchants invest their money in perishable goods, and this 'friend of the world' in real estate," and so on. So far so good, Mr. Smith. But don't you know that in the former case, they are all merchants, and as such invariably benefit the country they happen to be in, whilst in the latter case, the dealing is with a Chinese shoe manufacturer—one of those who come into direct competition with white people, both as employers and employees. If the editor of the Standard doesn't see the difference, I guess working men can. Pretty thing, isn't it, to ask the working man for his vote and at the same time taking the bread and butter out of his and his childrens' mouths! But it just shows the policy he and the crowd he pulls with pursue, that's all.

EYES AND EARS.

THE LATE APPOINTMENTS.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—In the editorial columns of last night's TIMES you intimate that there were other applicants for the position, besides Mr. Reddie to whom was awarded the Deputy Provincial Secretaryship. Surely there must be some mistake about the information upon which this statement is founded. Few, I think, would be so indecorous and unfeeling in their pursuit of the position, as to ask for it before the mortal remains of the late incumbent were carried to their final resting place. Yet, if there be any truth in street rumor, this unseemly conduct would have been necessary, if Mr. Reddie had any opponents, whose applications were before the local government when the appointment was made, for report has it that the decision was reached before the burial had taken place. I am inclined to agree with your New Westminster correspondent, that the "artful nepotist" of the government saw no safety in delay. He was quite determined that the place should be given to his "favorite protege," and thus he resolved to have the matter settled before other claims could be advanced or other combinations formed. His colleagues in the Government may have been entrapped into acquiescence by the "cheap John," clap-trap of promotion within the department, but I greatly mistake if the members of the legislature, who have been completely ignored, and the large body of voters who are equally interested, will be deceived by any such pretence. These will see in the appointment, however, worthy the recipient may be, the successful machinations of an arbitrary and selfish minister, who has already done much to bring the ministry of which he is an astute and unscrupulous member, into disfavor and disrepute. It cannot of course be denied that from his own standpoint, he was wise in having the matter disposed of before opposition was developed, or any especial interest had been awakened in the matter; but it remains to be seen whether the general public will receive this new evidence of the wily minister's all prevading power in the administration with that favor which will bring delight to the hearts of himself and his obedient colleagues. OBSERVER.

Steamboat Competition.

A lively race took place on Thursday between the steamers Yosemite and Premier. The Yosemite left Vancouver 30 minutes in advance of the Premier and was overhauled in Plumper's Pass. The passengers were greatly excited over the contest and an American flag was brought forth by one of the Premier's passengers and shook at the "blooming Britishers." Another Yankee fired a pistol salute.

The steamers Cariboo Fly and Nell, laden with Skeena river salmon, left Port Essington at the same time and had a lively run for this port. The Fly arrived one hour in advance of the other competitor.

The Duchess of Montrose was married to her first husband in 1836, exactly twenty-six years before he present husband was born.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 21—Two men en route to Washington Territory overland, stopped at Rock Springs yesterday afternoon to purchase supplies. They became intoxicated and engaged in a saloon brawl with some coal miners. One of the strangers drew a revolver and emptied it into the crowd. Dick Davis was instantly killed and Phil Shaffer and Dan Harrison wounded, all miners. After the shooting the strangers jumped into their wagon and drove rapidly out of town. Two officers who followed on foot were fired upon by the emigrants. In exchanging shots one of the strangers was wounded and both horses killed. The miners tried to take the prisoners from the officers when they were en route to the jail. There is every probability that the men will be lynched.

TERRIBLE GALE.

A Newly Married Man Locked up for Assaulting his Wife.

William Gale, a colored barber, was arrested in Seattle on Tuesday last on two charges of assault and battery. Three weeks ago he married a colored girl in Victoria named Ada Washington and removed to Seattle where he opened a barber shop. The assault was committed at their lodgings in the Columbia House on Tuesday night. The prisoner was interviewed by a reporter of the Post-Intelligencer and said: "The fuss is all about a child I did not know anything about when I married my wife. She was introduced to me as Ada Washington, and I supposed she was a young girl in her teens. I courted her, and married her less than a month ago against the wishes of all my folks. I took her to my brother's house, but he made me get out of that. We went to a lodging house, but my wife did not like it there, and so we moved to the Columbia house. She was again dissatisfied, but said she would stay in the room if I would buy her a piano. Well, I rustled around and got a piano for her. About that time we got into a conversation about children, and I said I would like to support a child of my own, but would have nothing to do with any other man's children. She commenced to cry, and I knew there was something wrong. I quizzed her for two or three days, and finally she told me she had a child, which was with her aunt in San Francisco, and that she had just learned that it was very sick. I asked her who was the father of the child and after two days' hesitancy, she said the father was a Seattle lawyer, but refused to divulge the name. I was angry at first, but finally forgave her, and told her to send for the child and I would treat it as one of my own, and make a barber out of it. From that on, all went well till one evening I went home and she was in the landlady's room and would not let me in, as she was busy playing the piano. I think she had been drinking. One of us had, and it might have been me. Well, when I did get in, I shoved her, and she commenced to yell, and when the landlady came poking her nose into our domestic affairs, I shoved her, and the result is that I am here in court on two charges of assault and battery, and my brother refuses to do anything for me. He says if I have put my foot in it I can get it out again, as he has done enough for me. He is a good man, but he is dead medicine on that gal I married."

BASEBALL.

The Willamettes of Portland have disbanded.

The Chicagos and Detroits will arrive in San Francisco in November and will spend the winter in Australia. They will visit Portland and play a series of five games.

A peculiar play occurred in a recent baseball game in Portland, Maine. Both nines were tied, and it was in the last half of the ninth inning. A player made a base hit, and reached first safely. The pitcher threw the ball to first to catch the runner napping, but did not succeed. The first baseman deftly put the ball in his pocket, and the pitcher made a bluff to deliver the ball. The base runner danced off first, and the first baseman tried to get the ball out of his pocket to touch the base runner, but it would not come. The base runner, seeing the predicament that the first baseman was in, started around the bases with the first baseman in close pursuit, the latter all the time trying to extract the ball from his pocket. He didn't, and the runner scored the winning run amid great applause.

Winnipeg, Sept 19—The defeat of the Brandon lacrosse club by the Winnipegs last evening makes the race for the championship between the 20th and the Winnipegs. The deciding game will be played on Saturday.

A Visit to Kamloops.

Rev. D. Fraser, who returned from Kamloops last evening, reports Presbyterianism as flourishing in that district. He says a splendid population is coming in there from the east principally young men of highland descent from Glengarry, Ontario, Picton, Nova Scotia, Queen's, Prince Edward Island and other places. On Sunday last he preached three times, once in the Gaelic language, which pleased some of the Highlanders very much. One of them, an old H. B. Co. man, said he had not heard the mother tongue for 40 years. Since that time he had acquired English and French, but concluded he "if you want to go right down to the roots of things you have got to get it in Gaelic." A great many people were in Kamloops during the tournament and a thoroughly cosmopolitan gathering it was. The cowboy was there on his broncho and the Indian on his cayuse and as cavalcades of them scampered around the town and through the streets a scene of animation was presented such as is not seen every day. The business people of Kamloops reaped a good harvest as neither rancher nor cowboy think anything of money when they go to town.

THE CHINESE STEAMERS.

The Minister of Customs informed a reporter of the Call at Winnipeg the other day that the port of Vancouver received credit for "$3,000 last month on account of the landing of Chinese immigrants at that port." Here we have a case in point, told with evident gusto by a Dominion Cabinet Minister, who has a personal interest in the terminal city, as another incentive for the citizens of Victoria to bestir themselves and spare no means, and leave no stone unturned, to have the Chinese steamers call at this port for the discharge of local cargo and passengers. The importance of action on this head need not be more fully gone into. Mr. McKenzie Bowell, during the interview quoted, took care to have a sneer at the supposed "decay of Victoria." Our Board of Trade asked for bread and the hon. gentleman gave them a stone! They asked for justice and they get a sneer. When Cabinet Ministers are taught that they cannot meddle with our interests with impunity, they will be more cautious in their actions. But what effort has been made by our city contemporary, or our members of parliament, to "teach" them?

BLACK COD FISHERIES.

In our remarks on the recent discovery of the black cod fishing grounds, through the enterprise of Mr. Henry Saunders, we should have shared that honor also with Mr. Hans Helgesen, whose endeavors in this direction are well-known to our readers. Mr. Mowatt, fishing inspector, a year or so ago, partially explored the black cod fishing grounds, of which he made a report to Ottawa, and which our morning contemporary quoted at some length in its article yesterday. Yet it fails in giving any excuse whatever as to the cause of delay on the part of the Dominion authorities to complete the exploration of the grounds this season as promised. This promise was exacted from them by the action of the Board of Trade and the Provincial Legislature. We are aware that the Federal Government failed to fulfil it agreement, but we want to know the reason why. On this point our contemporary is silent. Had it and our city and provincial members, done their duty to the province and the party to which they belong, there would be no cause for our present remarks. The importance of the discovery, and location of the fishing grounds are a mine of untold wealth, not only to the province of British Columbia, but also to the Dominion. Immediate steps should be urged on the authorities at Ottawa for the proper exploration of the fishing grounds, their protection from intrusion, and the safety of navigation in the establishment of lighthouses, harbors of refuge, and other undertakings calculated to develop this new industry.

PROTECTION.

Although the principle of levying high duties for the sake of protection to home industries may result advantageously in some cases there is much about the working of it that is incomprehensible to ordinary beings. A morning dispatch for instance states that on account of poor crops in France the duty of five francs upon cereals is not to be removed as it was proposed to do. What we believe will strike most people is that if the French farmer ever required protection, it is at this time when his crop is poor and he has only a limited quantity to depend on for the support of himself and family. It is not in the days of business sunshine and prosperity that the toiling husbandman needs help, but rather when the clouds of adversity gather, when the crops fail and a storm of bills from the merchant creditor beat upon his house that protection, the so-called universal friend of all men, should step in and lighten, rather than add, to his difficulties. The French, therefore, are wise in their decision. If protection is any good to the farmer it is now. It seems on the other hand very hard for the Government to refuse to throw open the doors of supply to the hungry millions who buy their bread. The greatest good to the greatest number should be the aim of all governments, but whether France has taken the right steps to accomplish that object is an open question. Her artisans would appreciate cheap bread. The farmer will rejoice over the high prices. The question then would appear to have been whether the artisan or the farmer should go hungry. The experience of France's island neighbor is altogether in favor of cheap bread where not only the farmer is more thriving than he is in France but the artisan is better paid for his labor and it costs him less to live.

INTERPREFER'S OFFICE.

The Vancouver News undertakes to answer the question as to who is reponsible for the removal of the Chinese interpreter's office from this city. As usual our contemporary is unable to write of the advantages of Vancouver without speaking ill of Victoria and proceeds to back up our morning contemporary by stating that "this particular office," as well as many other official positions, * * * will inevitably require to be transferred to the mainland." Of course this is what Vancouver is after and no one will blame her for it. If Victorians will allow the interpreter's office, or any other, to be removed, they deserve to lose it. If we are not vigilant enough to protect our interests we deserve to suffer and we will suffer. Let that office be removed and a movement is started which will not stop there.

In answer to the claim that protection is in the interest of the workingman, Powderly states that there are 1,000,000 idle workingmen in the United States to-day.

REPARATION AND CONDEMNATION.

The Winnipeg Call of September 15th, reported an interview its representative had with the Hon. Minister of Customs, where that gentleman said that the removal of the Chinese interpreter at Victoria was not contemplated. We have waited anxiously for our morning contemporary, as the organ of the Ottawa Government here, to give its readers and the faithful following the words of wisdom that falls occasionally from the lips of their lords and masters. We have waited in vain. They are silent on a most vital point of interest affecting the welfare of Victoria, and why? Is it because the protest of The Times against that outrageous and unwarrantable proceeding of the Minister of Customs found an echo in the east, which penetrated to the heart of the honorable gentleman who probably dreaded to face the music on his return to the capital for his encouragement of Chinese slavery and prostitution, exemplified in the removal of Mr. Gardner's office to Vancouver, in order to get rid of that gentleman. The disclaimer of the Minister of Customs came none too soon for the credit of himself and the great Conservative party.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Reports for Labrador are to the effect that the fishing has been very poor but there is no destitution among the fishermen.

Premier Greenway says he thinks the damage done to the crops by the recent frost in Manitoba will not average twenty per cent.

Twenty-four young Swedish women who arrived in New York on the steamer Hecla, were found to have contracted, through a matrimonial agency, to marry men in that country, none of them having ever yet met their prospective husbands. Castle Garden authorities were doubtful whether the contract immigration law covered such cases, and did not detain the women.

Charley Mair, of Prince Albert, in a late member of the Winnipeg Sun, published a poem on "The Last Bison." The production is good and seasonable. We are anxiously looking for a poem on "The Last Ox" Charley was seen riding in the race when running away from his friend Reil in 1870. That incident was poetic in itself and well worthy of a few lines from the immortal pen of the bard of the "West End" on the banks of the mighty Saskatchewan!

If there is one thing more than another that we admire about the half-starved old daily that comes out with bats in the evening it is its honesty. For instance it copies its obituary notices like its politics holus bolus from the morning organ of the government and invariably—we use the word advisedly—gives the boss credit. The old paper we regret to observe is fast developing into a fawning sycophant at the feet of the Colonist which it was originally started to kill.

Apparently a new struggle for "provincial rights" is about being inaugurated, with Quebec in this case as the party aggrieved. The question at issue is so complicated that it would be rash for a layman to hazard an opinion as to the constitutional right of a province to enact the legislation which has been, or is about to be, vetoed by the Dominion Government. The statute in question is, as our readers are aware, one passed by the Quebec Legislature at its last session, to abolish the Montreal Circuit Court, and create in its place, and for the discharge of its functions, two Dominion Magistrates' Courts. That, by the terms of the B. N. A. Act, the Federal Government is clothed with power to veto any Act of a Provincial Legislature will probably be now admitted on all hands. But from the history of the origin of the Act, and the practice of the first few years of Confederation, it is equally clear that such power was conveyed only as a sacred trust, and in the full belief that it would be used with scrupulous regard to the autonomous rights of the provinces and so only in cases of constitutional necessity. The real question at issue, that on which the public opinion and sympathy of the Dominion will turn, is the question whether the vetoed act is ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature. Amongst the "exclusive powers" secured to the Provincial Legislatures by the constitution "are the administration of justice in the province, including the constitution, maintenance and organization of Provincial Courts, both of civil and criminal jurisdiction, and including procedure in civil matters in these courts." But on the other hand, the appointment of the Judges of the Superior, District, and County Courts is the exclusive prerogative of the Governor-General, i. e., of course, of the ministry of the day. Whether the right of the Provinces to "constitute, maintain, and organize" courts implies the right to abolish, and the further right to transfer to the jurisdiction of magistrates functions previously exercised by Circuit Courts presided over by judges, are questions for the legal fraternity. There is, we believe, no doubt that additional judges were badly required in the Montreal District, that the administration of justice in the district had been in consequence very defective, and that the Dominion Government had disregarded the repeated requests and remonstrances both of the Bar and of the public in the matter. So far, the action of Mr. Mercier's administration seems to have been in response to a genuine need. It is already pretty clear that the exercise of the veto will be resisted to the utmost, and that the contest will give new life to the demand for a revision of the constitution.

UNIONIST VS. LIBERAL.

London, Sept. 20—At a breakfast given at Bradford to-day by the Radical Unionists, Mr. Jos Chamberlain said that he did not see why the Irish should not have local government, though his experience had shown him that whether at Dublin, New York or Boston, Irish government was always inefficient and corrupt. He said that he once thought the Liberals and Unionists could reunite on a feasible policy; but now the chasm was daily widening. An alliance of Conservatives would depend on the adoption of principles which were above party interests.

The Daily News says the chasm is daily widening between the Unionists and Liberals, and says it hopes and firmly believes that there will be an ever-increasing distance between Gladstonians and the followers of Chamberlain.

San Francisco, Sept. 20—Judge and Mrs. Terry were indicted by the United States grand jury this afternoon. Four indictments were brought against Judge Terry; first, for drawing and exhibiting a deadly weapon in the circuit court or vicinity; second, assaulting the United States marshal and his deputy; third, obstructing the marshal in carrying out the order of the court; and fourth, using threats of force and endeavoring to intimidate the marshal while executing the order of the court. Those against Mrs. Terry are for obstructing the marshal in his endeavor to carry out the court's order and for impeding that official by force.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE.

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

[Contributed to the American Press Association.]

CHAPTER IX.

FALLEN FORTUNES.

It was a rainy day. Smoke was sullenly making its way out of the stone house chimney, like a boy sent to school against his will.

A year has passed since the close of the last chapter. Not much had happened to our people in that year. Yet it had been enough to change the destiny of some of them for life. It had brought poverty to the stone house. The death of Col. Carstone revealed the fact that the friend who had invested his fortune for him had been false to the trust. Not enough remained to give bread to the children.

Shirley was the head of the family. From her mother down to the 3-year-old Harry all leaned upon her, and looked to her to tell them what to do next.

What then? Shirley's soul had been full to overflowing of her own thoughts and hopes. Now she put her own thoughts and hopes in a corner and began to think and hope for other people.

The false friend's investments had swallowed nearly all. Even the mill and the farm had to go. Interest had been paid regularly during the Colonel's lifetime, so that he had no knowledge of the state his affairs were in. There were debts in many directions too. The old family lawyer was able to keep only the stone house for the Carstones. A heavy debt hung over even that. This was the condition of things.

Somebody had to go to work.

"Well," said Katy Tringle, the old maid, who always carried a black basket with a flapping lid on each side, "them Carstone young ones ain't no better than other folks' children! I reckon they'll find out workin' folks' victuals ain't all white bread now. They'll have to break up. Them biggest ones is old enough to do chores for their board."

Must the family in the stone house be scattered? It was enough to make the generations of Carstones that had been born and lived and died there turn over in their graves.

Shirley was a dreamer, and intensely imaginative. This is to be remembered in tracing the change her life took on at this time, and the history of it afterward. The story of lofty ideas and heroic action made always an impression on her mind that held like iron. Beyond a doubt the poetry, the history and drama that George Moreton read to her had much to do with shaping her life. Following sages and martyrs gone before, she climbed the heights of generous and daring thought, murmuring ever more to her own soul, "Such thoughts I will think too." Did she hear of great and noble deed, her heart throbbed quicker and her eyes grew dewy with sympathy, and she unconsciously said, "Such deeds I, too, will do when the time comes."

Nay, she went a step farther, pondering as she did still the old question she had asked her papa in childhood, "Has a girl as much sense as a boy? She answered it to herself as she grew older, saying with the deep, wise conclusion of unspoiled girlhood, "What strong, heroic men have done, strong, heroic women can do.

She had said she would be wise and steadfast when the time came that demanded strength and wisdom. Was the time ripe? She had dreamed of shining occasion for heroism. Was it to come now in this sorrowful, wholly unlooked for way? Above all, and after all her dreams, was it in such poor, commonplace guise that her occasion presented itself at last? That was the most disheartening of anything. All who are young, aspiring and human must have felt the same. She did not doubt her own powers. She had the faith in herself that comes of a consciousness of strength. It was not vanity. It was something very different. The two wisest men she knew had had infinite faith in her, and had infinite belief in the strength of a good woman. They were her father and her teacher. In these days of trial her mind ran continually on that beloved teacher, the things he had told her, the brave, sweet wisdom he had spoken.

Out of the beautiful past his voice said to her now:

"Reconcile yourself to the inevitable.

"A really great soul is great also in little things. If it is not to be our lot to fill grand requirements, we may at least fill small requirements in a grand way. If ever there comes a clashing of forces in your mind, Shirley, so that you cannot seem to know what is best, remember this: Do the duty that lies nearest you. That will surely lead you into the light. And never lose courage—never give up!"

The sorrowful winter crept by with leaden feet. It required all Shirley's time and faculties to get the tangled thread of the Carstone fortunes straightened out. A new trouble faced her, one that she had least of all expected. Her mother gradually sank into a confirmed invalid. It was worse than that. It was about as bad as it could be, in fact. She became a hypochondriac. Shirley's mother was not one of the Carstone sort. She was of the million and one members of the female sex who are put in to fill up, of whom we say she is a good, sweet woman, and dismiss them. She was one of the amiable creatures for whose ladylike ailments the doctors prescribe goat's whey and gentle exercise. Their ailments are always ladylike. In brief, she was one of the women who stay where they are put. They are amiable. Yes. But how very uninteresting. During her husband's lifetime, his strong character and high spirits had borne Mrs. Carstone beyond herself. Like the moon, she had shone by reflected light. Doubtless that is quite the proper thing for wives to do. But it is rather inconvenient when the light is withdrawn. Then they are merely a dark body in the way.

Her husband dead, she sank to her level. His death and the manner of it were a frightful shock to her. A strong character would have rallied. She never tried to do so, but simply hung upon Shirley in a querulous way. She weighted Shirley down and irritated her at the same time.

She was fair to see, this pretty invalid mamma.

"Land sake," said little Mis' Simpkins, "she don't look no older than Shirley, layin' around there on sofys in her white cashmere gowns trimmed with blue silk that has to be ripped off every time the gown is washed. Her skin is as soft and white as a baby's, that it is! and them red cheeks of hern is the picture of health. She ain't no more sick nor I am. She's as fat as a hen on a corn pile. She could get right up off'n that there sofy and go and do a churnin' this minit, or Fun's liart. But there she lays, and it's Shirley this and Shirley that and Shirley 'tother, till you'd think her tongue'd wear out."

THE GOSSIPS.

"What's the matter with her?" asked Katy Tringle. Mis' Simpkins' gossip.

Katy stretched out her long neck to hear.

"Hush! Sometimes she conceits she's got a needle in her foot and it's runnin' all over over her. Then she howls with shootin' pains up the spine of her back. Sometimes she conceits she senses a man under her bed. Then she raises the house in the middle of the night."

"They say she's got four kinds of sickness to wunst," remarked Katy.

"Yes, everybody that sets foot in the house has got to go and hear about her lungs. It's going to carry her off with the gallopin' consumption before spring, she tells folks. Then she coughs a couch like she was holler from her heels up. But old Madame Frenchy who tends her says she never coughs none at night. Her hands is as plump as a baby's and she weighs more than Shirley."

"I've heard she can't walk, or feed herself without help," continued Katy.

"That's another of her notions," scornfully retorted Mis' Simpkins. "She sense she can't turn herself over. Every time she wants to be moved, she screeches for some of us to come and lift her. But she can turn herself over fast enough if she thinks nobody's lookin'. It takes her half a minute to put every bite o' victuals into her mouth. She pretends to think she's got chalk in her joints, and they've got brittle and'll break if they're moved unexpected. She crooks her fingers that slow when anybody's lookin', till you'd think it 'twas a funeral waitin' for the corpse's cousins to take their leave. But when Madame Frenchy tells her what a purty white hand she's got, and what slim knuckles—she does it o' purpose to try her, old Mis' Frenchy does—then she's smart enough, 'I war'nt yet'—then she forgets herself too total, she does, and lifts her hand and limbers her fingers out an' out like pianna playin'. You can say what you please, but them kind o' rheumatis I've got my opinions of."

Mis' Simpkins shut her jaws with a snap like a steel trap and ceased. Katy Tringle took up the narrative.

"The neighbors says she got nigh onto a bar'l o' doctor books, and she reads 'em all day, studyin' out what she calls her symptins. She'd better be readin' her Bible and makin' her peace with her God and her neighbors, if she's goin' to die so fast."

Katy Tringle stretched out her neck and gave a hiss not unlike a defiant goose. Indeed, both in appearance and mental qualifications, Miss Tringle resembled somewhat that invaluable domestic bird. The hiss set Mis' Simpkins going again.

"Yes, she says the doctors don't understand her case at all," says she. "Dr. Plumpkins they've rowsed out a dozen times in the night to go out there 'cause Mis' Carstone wouldn't live till morning'. Last night they sent fur him he jist naturally up and wouldn't go. I heard every word they said myself, right next door to the doctor's shop. He told 'em he was too tired to go anywhere, and he wouldn't go to see his own mother-in-law that night."

Again this little Mis' Simpkins shut her mouth with a snap like a steel trap.

Again the old maid prompted her, and again set her going.

"Mis' Carstone ain't no more the same woman she was when he wuz a livin' than if she'd turned into a porkypine. She's as cross as pizen. If they go agin her the least mossel she threatens the children she's agoin' to die, and tells 'em they'll be sorry after she's dead. But she'll be alivin' after you and me's laid out on our coolin' boards, you mark."

Which was quite true. Mis' Simpkins summed up in a final gush of emphatic opinion:

"She goes a nag, nag, naggin' from mornin' till night, and nobody's got a minit's peace in the house. Lord! Lord! if I had her, I'd take the kinks out of her!"

Then she shut her jaws with a snap which was plainly to close out.

The village gossips' diagnosis was only too correct. To this hopeless state pretty, gentle Mrs. Carstone had brought herself, simply by giving way to her emotions, and coddling her little ailments. The process is not a difficult one for anybody.

Shirley's way was not a path of roses, turn which way she would. The question of money bringing work had beset her sorely, but a beginning had been made toward settling that. The ever present Mis' Simpkins opened her mouth and decided the matter. She said to the squire:

"What's the use of makin' sich a to-do about a schoolmaster, when there's one right under your noses? Give the school to Shirley Carstone. She can write and indite and cipher as good as the Presbyterian minister hisself, if she is a female. She ain't no great shakes in years, but she'll come o' that, if she's let alone. Most of us does."

So it came about that Shirley found herself in the place the master had filled. She had taken the work that lay nearest. A dreary, distressed life she led at first. In her disappointment and inexperience, death would have been easier—far easier, indeed.

On this sullen, rainy autumn evening she had gone home from her school and summoned up all her courage, all her philosophy, to meet the situation. Harry, the youngest little boy, was dangerously ill. Past afternoon was a question of his life or death. Her mother was so overcome that she went from one fainting fit into another. Between her calls for hot water and cold water and raspberry vinegar and smelling salts, and her being constantly moved, she had kept the household on the trot for hours. The sound of her peevish groanings was still in Shirley's ears as she passed into the room where baby Harry lay. A look of joy lighted his white little face as he saw the strong, tall sister. He lifted his wasted arms feebly about her neck and moaned:

"Help Harry, Shirley."

She lifted the mite of a body in her arms, and walked back and forth, soothing the child.

"You better let him die, Mademoiselle," said old Madam Frenchy. "He will be better off. If he dis now he will go to de heaven. If he live you know not vare he will go."

But Harry did not die. After he came to be a man he remembered that illness. He always said Shirley saved him. She was so strong and cheery and gentle that he said from the minute he saw her face that day it put new life into him.

All night she held the child in her arms. All that night, while she rocked him and soothed him and gave him his drink, she looked her future steadily in the face.

She saw that her hands were to be full for years to come. The work that lay before her was the most distasteful, dispiriting task to which her hands could have been set. She must put the poem aside. Perhaps now it would be three years before she could begin it. What then? Her range of knowledge and feeling would be all the richer, the richer and deeper, for this melancholy experience that was to be hers. So the brave spirit reasoned. But she never thought of giving up the poem. Not once.

Down the vista of years Shirley saw poverty, disappointment, toil that was hateful to her, and bitter self denial.

She saw all this and she did not shrink.

An Explanation.

What is this "nervous trouble", with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown—to-day it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous. *

McLEAN.—On the 19th inst., Alexander McLean, a native of Kircudbrightshire, Scotland, aged 61 years and 9 months.

The funeral will take place on Saturday at 3 o'clock, from the family residence, Cadboro Bay road.

BORN.

COHEN—In this city, at 9:15 this morning, the wife of James Cohen of a son.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Ice Cream at Steitz's. *

—Kurtz's Jubilee Cigars are now ready.

—The Cariboo Fly will leave for the north on Monday next.

—Largest spring chickens of the season at Beauchamp's, Yates street. *

—A number of lady will be summoned to-morrow for throwing stones in the public streets.

—Dr. Morrison has removed to Moody's Block, 76 Yates street, up stairs. 1m* —Fresh Oysters at the New England Bakery. Delivered to all parts of the city. Telephone No. 161. *

—Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents. *

—The only case before the Police Court this morning was a charge against a property holder for allowing thistles to flourish on his property.

—There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction. *

—A marriage will shortly take place between Lieutenant L. Bethune, third son of the late Admiral Bethune, and Mary Edith Wyndham Dwyer, third daughter of Canon Dwyer, late of Ennis, County Claire, and Victoria, B. C.

—Take Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the sufferings of body and mind, caused by habitual constipation. A moderate use of Ayer's Pills will invariably regulate the bowels.*

—Ross & Ceperley, Real Estate and Insurance. C. P. R. Co.'s lots for sale; correspondence solicited. P. O. Block, Hastings street, Vancouver, B. C. *

—For the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE, CARPETS, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, LAMPS, &c., go to J. SEHL, Government Street, where you are sure to get suited in style, quality and lowest prices. *

—Tomb and Headstones, Monuments, in Marble, imported and local Granite, Mantle pieces and Wash Stands in Marble, artistically executed, and at reasonable rates, at George Budge's Marble Works, Douglas street, Victoria. Call and see specimens of work. *

—Canker humors of every description, whether in the mouth, throat, or stomach, are expelled from the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other remedy can compare with this, as a cure for all diseases originating in impure or impoverished blood. *

—John Hayes, Credit P.O., says: "His shoulder was so lame for nine months that he could not raise his hand to his head, but by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the pain and lameness disappeared, and although three months has elapsed, he has not had an attack of it since."

—Mr. George Tolen, Gravenhurst, Ont., writes: "My customers who have used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure say that it has done them more good than anything they have ever used." It has indeed a wonderful influence in purifying the blood and curing diseases of the Digestive Organs, the Liver, Kidneys, and all disorders of the system. *

—There is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—a pulmonic of acknowledged efficacy. It cures lameness and soreness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claims to public confidence. *

—Premonitions of approaching danger, in the shape of digestive weakness, lassitude, inactivity of the kidneys, pains in the region of the liver and shoulder blades, mental depression coupled with headache, furred tongue, vertigo, should not be disregarded. Use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and avert the peril to health. It removes all impurities and gives tone to the whole system. *

Electric Light Plant.

The Electric Light Illuminating Company recently received two new No. 10 dynamos and other necessary machinery to increase their plant. The boilers are being made at the Albion Iron Works and the building on Langley street is being altered to receive the new machinery. The apparatus as we at present supplies 400 lights, which have given entire satisfaction.

Co-ed School.

This school has opened with an attendance of over thirty boys from some of our most respected families. The Rev. Mr. Brenton, as principal, gives the pupils the benefit of his wide experience and is assisted by an able body of assistants. Mr. John Talbot, an experienced and successful master from Nonington School, Kent, England, has just arrived to act as assistant resident master.

Coal Find.

Port Townsend is excited over the discovery of what is claimed to be a coal mine, rich in quality and exhaustless in supply. It is located on Deadman's Point, on Discovery Bay, six miles from Port Townsend. The mine was discovered by some loggers who burned the coal at their camp fire for over a week. The property is owned by Port Townsend citizens. Further developments are anxiously awaited.

Supreme Court Procedure.

A meeting of professional men was held this afternoon to consider the draft rules drawn up by the Commissioners. It was decided that the Government should be asked to postpone sanctioning the new rules until a committee of the profession should have had an opportunity of reporting upon them. We understand that a committee consisting of Messrs. Richards, Q. C., Bole, Q. C., Corbould, S. Perry Mills, Bodwell and Hett was selected for that purpose.

Dinner at Government House.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Nelson entertained the following guests at dinner last evening at Government House: Lady Macdonald, Mrs G W Allan, Toronto; Sir M B Begbie, Hon Justice and Mrs Gray, Hon Joseph and Mrs Trutch, Mr and Mrs R Re Pringle, Cobourg, Miss Macdonald, Toronto, Sir Wm Wiseman, Mrs Gloutz Anderson, Hon W W Hanley, Hon P O'Reilly, Lieut Sampson, R N, Mr Clive Pringle, and Mr Herbert Stanton.

The Medical Association.

As an inducement for the Dominion Medical Association to meet at Banff next year the C. P. R. offered first class return tickets, meals, berths, and four days at the hotel for $95. Dr H P Wright, of Ottawa, was elected president, and among others the following vice-presidents: Manitoba, Dr Lynch, Winnipeg; British Columbia, Dr Lefebvre, Vancouver; Northwest Territory, Dr Jukes, Regina; local secretaries, Manitoba, Dr Ferguson, Winnipeg; British Columbia, Dr Milne, Victoria; Northwest Territory, Dr Oliver, Edmonton.

Business Activity in Nanaimo.

Mr. Marcus Wolfe, of Nanaimo, came down on to-day's train. Mr. Wolfe being asked how he accounted for the building activity in Nanaimo said it was due to the exclusion of Chinese from the mines. When they were discharged and white men employed in their places more residences had to be built in Nanaimo and Wellington and a general impetus was given to all kinds of business. Several brick buildings are going up or contemplated. The removal of the Chinese is regarded as a good move by everyone, miners, mine owners and the public generally being satisfied with the change. Since the late explosions Mr. Wolfe says greater precautions are taken than before. The miners have to do more mining and use less powder and in addition properly qualified shot firers have been appointed who examine the tamping and fire the shots. Other steps have been taken to minimize as much as possible the chances of explosions which are so disastrous to life and property. Nanaimo seems to have prospects of a prosperous future.

OUR TOWN MAJOR.

The Theatre—Electric Tramway—Cholera and the Colonist.

Reader, of course you went to the theatre last night. Everybody was there. We had staid merchants, Wall street snobs, tone from the high places and "gods" from all over, while snobs, soldiers, sailors, tinkers, tailors, editors, compositors, printers' devils, judges, lawyers, doctors, dentists, preachers, hackmen, draymen, and the Major! What a jolly lot all within the four walls of a theatre. The fair sex were in great form, and had a deal to contend against. Some of them at church have improvised cushions for their backs, at the theatre they do without. When some fair ones would catch the Major's eye, how they'd blush and whisper to their neighbors; how their tongues rattled forty to the dozen; how sympathetic we all were, crying one moment at the pathetic realities of Miss Phoebe Davies acting, or applauding and laughing at the goodness of human nature and the milk of human kindness displayed by "Bob" and "Sally" and their boy "Ned". Here we had the real "Punch and Judy," English rural life, town life and slum life in the great smoking city, by the scenery and acting brought actually, into our presence, as it were, here on the Pacific Coast. Who will say now that the "leghitimitrate drahamer," as Bob Willet said, does not go down in Victoria, or who will dare assert that "ye gods" are not intelligent? They led the applause last night anyhow; one sure thing the Colonist man did'nt. No place on the American continent could produce such an orderly, well-behaved, appreciative crowd of comely matrons, smiling damsels and bouncing boys, who witnessed the play of "All the World Against Her" as put on the boards of the Victoria by the Grismer-Davies company. A more satisfactory arrangement in securing reserved seats, so as to prevent mistakes is desirable. Such would be a benefit to the theatre going public.

Only just fancy the Colonist producing a reprint of a sanative homily and a small bit of talk about sewers. It put The Major in mind of what the kettle called the pot when the Colonist tryes to lecture the city on its dirt. It also cries out about painting "the poles." A little paint on the moral poles of that institution would be a great improvement.

The Ottawa people, it would appear from last night's despatches, fear the introduction of the cholera here from Japan. Our sanitary officer should bestir themselves for once in a while and get a move on, else if the cholera does come, many will be put in their winter away out at Ross Bay. It will save coal.

The Major said all along that the Government would pull the Bastile to pieces in order to—what? Nobody knows, nobody cares; all it is any good for is pulling down. Tear out another gap or two and there'll be nothing left.

See how the people take on to the Major's ideas. A few weeks ago he spoke about an electric street railway. Already we have a company formed. But no "Berlin system," gentlemen, if you please. That system is played out and dangerous as well. If you want a model take that of Dr. Irail's railway from Bushmills to the Giant's Causeway. It has been pronounced the best. If a charter is granted we must insist that the system will be ready for traffic by the 1st of May next, 5 cent rides, and a bonded guarantee to commence, and keep up the system in running order during the term of lease. No matter who obtains the charter, so long as we have the cars running.

Rich Strike.

Samples of rock have been received in this city from the Hidden Treasure mine Cherry creek, which assays $1200 to the ton. The information states that the lead has been struck at a depth of 100 feet. Interested parties in the city are very hopeful and further news will be anxiously looked for on the return of Mr. Chase.

For the North.

Mr. John Clayton, who left for Bella Bella a day or two ago on a little steamer built for him at the Star Shipyard, came down from Nanaimo to look for an engineer, the one who left here with him having deserted his mind when he got that far and "deserted the ship."

Judge Vowell of Kootenay, and Messrs. Wolf of Vancouver and Eberts of Victoria are in town to-day.—Calgary Tribune of Tuesday.

Mrs Mary E Tyler, the original Mary whose little lamb followed her to school one day, is still living at Somerville, Massachusetts, a vigorous old lady of eighty-two years. To a reporter of the Boston Globe she recently gave the true version of the world-famous verses. The lamb was raised by her from the day of its birth, its mother having deserted it. It followed Mary everywhere she went, and died in her arms, having been gored by a cow while following Mary about the barn. The three original verses were written by one John Roulstone, a young man of the neighborhood, then fitting for college, but two more verses were added afterward by a Mrs Townsend. From the fleece of her lamb Mary knit two pair of stockings. These were ravelled out, and sold in small bits tied to a card with Mary's autograph written on it, and sold for the fund collected to save the Old South Church, Boston. Two hundreds dollars were raised in this way.

TEACHER ARRESTED.

The Late Principal of the Vancouver School in Trouble.

(Special to THE TIMES.)

Vancouver, Sept. 21—The difficulties in connection with the appointment of a principal for the Central school in this city culminated this morning when Mr. H. Potmeyer, the late principal, was arrested in the school-room under a bench warrant. The cause was due to his refusal to give up his position. He was arraigned in the police court and the case remanded until Tuesday next. Mr. Law, the newly appointed teacher from Three Rivers, Quebec, is in charge of the school.

Marine Notes.

The steamer Wellington left Departure Bay on Thursday for San Francisco.

The Batavia passed down at 9 o'clock last night, bound for San Francisco.

The steamer Cariboo Fly will be detained discharging cargo at the ship Titania for the English markets.

The Wedding Boom.

There is a general impression abroad that the wedding boom has died out, but the TIMES has reason to believe that this is not the case. To-morrow evening it is said a popular railway man will be united in marriage to a young lady who lives a short distance outside the city.

On Tuesday evening next two young hearts will be made happy. Both are well-known, popular young people and the TIMES thinks they are both Victorians of the manor born.

Cowichan Notes.

Mr. John Evans, of Cowichan, returned from Vancouver to-day where he had been attending a meeting of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. G. T. He says the crops in Cowichan, like all other parts of the province, are good this year. The grain is well filled. There is some smut in the oats but it does not hurt anything. The root crop is ahead of other seasons. Potatoes are far ahead of last year. A good many of the farmers do not grow as many roots as they used to. Mr. Evans says the people of Cowichan will be well represented at the coming provincial exhibition.

The First Games.

Our morning contemporary is a little off in its baseball history. The first game of baseball played in Victoria was in 1866, between "nines" captained by J. C. Keenan and E. J. Buckley. The game was arranged at Keenan's saloon, now the American Hotel, which is kept by the "god-father" of the Amities. The first game by an organized club the "Olympics," was played afterwards, but in the same year, by two nines from the same club. Messrs. Joshua Davies and E. A. McQuade captained the two teams and did it well. In the following year the first international game was played on Beacon Hill, when the "Olympics" won, and the second at Olympia, on Chamber's prairie, where the Olympics lost. The games we have mentioned were the first and the foundation of base ball in Victoria.
